

We are all... Different.

Some of us are super energetic and love moving around.

Some of us daydream a lot.

Some of us have different interests.

Some of us get around in all kinds of different ways.

Our differences mean we can be our true selves.
Friends will like us for who we really are.

We can find our own creative ways of doing things and bring new ideas to the world.

Our differences make the world more interesting.
